Now we need to specify the local machine drive location to install Android Studio and Android SDK. After selecting the location path to install the required components, click Next like as shown below.

Now select the start menu folder to create a shortcut for android studio and click Install like as shown below.

Once we click the Install button the installation process will start and click Next after completion of installation like as shown below.

After that, it will show installation completion wizard in that click Finish to launch an android studio like as shown below.